

INCLUSIVE YOUTH LEADERSHIP MODEL - SELECTION QUIZ

Young people and staff can use this tool to help assess which approach to youth leadership might be appropriate for their social action project. Young people and organisations will have the deepest understanding of their context and should make the decision based on a range of factors, including the outcome of this self-assessment survey and discussion of differences and similarities between different people's answers to this quiz. Your discussion is as important as the scores you get on the quiz.

Instructions: use the quiz below to reflect on your project. Once you have completed the quiz, add up the scores, with strongly disagree counting as 0, disagree counting as 1, etc.

If the average score on this survey is between 0 and 10, consider engaging young people as consultants or contributors. If the score is between 9 and 27, consider engaging young people as partners or drivers. Consider having multiple people take this quiz, including young people and adults, to make sure the answers are not too biased by one person's opinion.

SCORING	0	1	2	3
QUESTION	Strongly disagree	Disagree	Agree	Strongly agree
The young people have had lots of experience sharing power with adults before
The young people have lots of time (e.g., two hours per week, consistently) to devote to this project
The young people want to devote lots of time (e.g., two hours per week, consistently) to this project
The young people have low additional support needs
The social action project was initiated by young people
Adult staff at the organisation are well trained to work with young people with additional support needs
Adult staff at the organisation have experience sharing power with children and young people
Adult staff at the organisation have plenty of time to devote to supporting young people to share power.
Adult staff at the organisation have the training and skills to share power with children and young people
TOTAL				